

FootBridge Selected as Nominee for Top Small Workplaces Across North America

March 11, 2008 – Andover, MA – The FootBridge Companies recently announced that it has been nominated as a candidate for The Wall Street Journal and Winning Workplaces' honor, Top Small Workplaces Across North America, a project that recognizes the organizations that greatly influence the future of the economy.

“Being nominated is quite an honor for us,” said Rich O’Donnell, co-founder and president of The FootBridge Companies. “These publications are so well-respected throughout the country, that we are very excited at the opportunity of being selected by them. Our employees put forth such a strong effort each day on our clients’ behalf that it would be most gratifying for all of us to gain a seat on that list.”

Those selected will be featured in a Wall Street Journal special report on October 13, 2008 and honored at a conference in Chicago on October 14 and 15.

Nominees must complete a questionnaire that includes information such as the company’s measures of success, growth potential, career development opportunities, and corporate culture.
